WHEN THE TEAKETTLE SINGS
When the dishes are washed and put away,
And the dishes are tucked in bed,
The floor is swept and the lights turned low,
And the evening paper read,
I like to sit in the rocking chair,
That belonged to Grandmother Lane,
And list to the teakettle hum its song,
And the echo of the window pane.
I like to dream what the future might hold,
In health and wealth and fame,
Or I glide off to sleep in my cot,
Or a little home in Spain.
Then I think of my cottage small,
And see familiar things,
The kiddie car, the baseball bat,
The powder box that shines.
I cast aside my dreams and know that
Love outvalues worldly things,
Why treasure up what is so transient as I sit,
And list to the teakettle sing.
—HILLEN KIMBALL FITZGERALD,
Haverhill, Mass.

SPRING
Ah, that time of year when bits of heaven fall
To bloom upon the earth, when on the meadow
Sleeps the lazy star-dust, half-mingled with the green,
Comes the soul's awakening to heed the gentle call.
Of Spring, when the gay and passive rainbow
Calls each flower by name, and tints each tiny bell.
With a hint of mood and rhythm that it's
Spring, clear comes the diction call of cascade down,
As in those happy days when the hill
Sylvan symphonies of bird love over the tangle
And burst in song tempestuous—then come
Within me, the spring of the year is ever in the seasons
To linger on like a lover's tune after the words
are gone.

COME HOME
To Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Sawin
Your neighbor for you give,
You know that Spring has come
And buds will turn to leaves,
The old home grieves from hills to eaves,
Come let us meet here,
No path leads to the great barn door
Across the drifting snow and sleet,
As in those happy days when the hill
Sylvan symphonies of bird love over the tangle
And burst in song tempestuous—then come
Within me, the spring of the year is ever in the seasons
To linger on like a lover's tune after the words
are gone.

AT EASTER
Look up there's blue sky above,
And faith beckons on the way,
Winter has passed, birds have come,
We leave behind the clouds of grey,
There is joy beyond, His word is true,
Never doubt it, or despair,
Earth renews its garments green,
And Love is found us everywhere.
The living Christ shows His power,
In each little bush and stream;
The flowers spring from the cold feet,
And opening buds are no dream.
There are those in need of aid,
And which none but you can give,
Look up, and out, and lend a hand,
And scatter kindness with the wind,
Many have entered the mansion fair
And expect us to sing our song,
At Easter, come, the morning stars,
For the night may be strong,
—MRS. ADDIE M. LORD,
Harrison, Maine.

With own estimation, but you can't always keep him there.

Recreational Advertising

Maine Publicity Bureau Enlarged

Willard B. Rogers, Hartford, Conn., one of America's best known authorities on advertising, is to give the principal address at the dinner to be held at the Eastland Hotel, Portland, Saturday evening, April 4th, on the occasion of the dedication of the enlarged State of Maine Publicity Bureau headquarters in that city.

During the past two or three years the business at the Publicity Bureau headquarters, Longfellow Square, Portland, has quite outgrown the Bureau's office space. Over 75,000 people were given information at the headquarters during the three months last summer and $2,055 letters from out-of-state people were answered, giving vacation and touring information.

On many occasions it was almost impossible to accommodate the rush of persons seeking direct information at the Bureau's headquarters. Several weeks ago the directors of the Bureau voted to enlarge the headquarters and the adjoining store on the Congress St. side of Longfellow Square was leased and has been added to the present Bureau. It is being completely equipped with new furniture and facilities for handling the vast number of people in a minimum of time.

The new headquarters is to be officially dedicated and opened to the public on Saturday, April 4, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. There will be music and refreshments during the afternoon, in charge of the Bureau's executive board of directors.

In the evening at 7, a dinner is to be held at the Eastland Hotel, to which the public is also invited. At this affair notable speakers will discuss the question of recreational publicity and the necessity for it, especially for Maine; the most effective methods of publicity and the results that have been achieved elsewhere.

Mr. Rogers, the principal speaker, is advertising director of the Bond Hotels, Hartford, is a member of the Recreational Division of the New England Council, and is widely known as an authority and speaker on the value of recreational advertising and the proper kind of advertising and publicity to use in the recreational field.

Another speaker is to be Colonel William A. Barron, Chairman of the Recreational Division of the New England Council, and who succeeded the late Hiram W. Ricker in that office; a director of the New Hampshire Publicity Bureau and the owner and manager of the Crawford House, Crawford Notch, N. H.

Be Kind to Animals Week

Week of April 19-25 to be Observed Naturally

The following article is written by Florence E. Mixer, secretary of the North Fryeburg Board of Mercy.

April 19-25 is National Be Kind to Animals Week, and the American Humane Education Society is asking pastors, teachers, Sunday Schools, and other organizations to give it some special observance.

There is an impression that since motor trucks have largely taken the place of horses that there is no more work for the humane society, but that is far from the case.

Cattle and dogs, suffering from the carelessness or ignorance of their owners, stray cats, and birds and animals of the woods are still crying out for protection.

In observing this week, the schools will only be carrying out Chapter 19, Sec. 124 of the Public Laws of Maine, which reads in part: "All teachers in the public schools of the state shall devote not less than one-half hour of each week of the school term to teaching the children under their charge in correlation with other studies of the school curriculum, the great principles of humanity as illustrated by kindness to birds and animals and regard for all creatures which contribute to the well being of man."

To take time for teaching kindness to animals is not only allowed, but required in the public schools.

In schools which have already formed Bands of Mercy, the Bands may well take charge of the observance. In other schools how could the week be observed better than by organizing a Band of Mercy with the attendant signing of the pledge, "I will try to be kind to all living creatures, and try to protect them from cruel usage?"

Children like the club idea, and a Band of Mercy may be made as elaborate or as simple as is desired.

The Bands may have regular meetings, but these are not required.

A booklet "How to Form Bands of Mercy" may be obtained without cost from the American Humane Education Society, 150 Longwood Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts.

Members are enrolled simply by signing the above pledge. However, attractive pledge cards may be obtained from the Society, also Be Kind to Animals and Star Bands of Mercy tokens used. It adds greatly to the interest to have the pledge cards and one kind of buttons when the Band is formed.

To each Band with at least thirty members, children or adults or both, the American Humane Education Society will send its monthly periodical, "Our Dumb Animals," for one year and a quantity of other material, including an initiation gold badge for the president. All that the Band has to do to get this material is to send to the Society at the above address the name and address of the Band, the president, and the secretary.

Bands of Mercy may also be formed by Sunday Schools or any interested person. Let's make Be Kind to Animals Week mean something in Oxford County!

The same force fashioned the sparrow that fashioned the man, the king, the God of the whole game, a mark of soul to furred and feathered thing: "And I am my brother's keeper. And I will fight his fight. And speak the word for beast and bird 'Till the world shall set things right."

PROPOSED HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

The Maine State Highway Commission has furnished the legislators an outline of work contemplated in the so called four-year highway program. Sections on thirty routes enter into the plan for the construction of concrete pavement and bridges and vituminous macadam and gravel roads.

Of local interest is Route 18, where it is proposed to build 1.25 miles of bituminous macadam road in Fryeburg near the Saco River.

A similar highway for Route 26 is mentioned between Shaker Hill in Poland to the concrete pavement near Welchville in Oxford. This will give a hard surfaced road from Portland by way of Gray to Norway and West Paris.

On Route 105 the completion of the road to the Peru-Mexico bridge by construction in Peru is mentioned.

Closing the gap between Auburn and Route 26, at Welchville for a firm surface into Norway and through Paris and Bethel to the White Mountains is an important item.

AUBURN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SPONSORS BIG FARM MEETING

Fifteen hundred invitations have been issued by the Auburn Chamber of Commerce to the farmers of Androscoggin and Oxford Valleys for a general assembly at Auburn on April 24. An all day program is being arranged, with dinner at noon, with Clarence Stetson, Chairman of the Maine Development Commission as the forenoon speaker, and the assembly addressed at the afternoon session by Andrew L. Folger, Commissioner of Agriculture, New Hampshire.

It is proposed to form a Farmers' Service Club, this for the purpose of united effort, coordination of ideas and co-operation on such questions as affect the farmer. An open forum will be held during the afternoon session, when questions of vital interest will be discussed.

The Chamber of Commerce has increasingly come to realize the value of the farmer to the larger community.

It is constantly expected that out of the meeting of April 24 will come a tremendous benefit to all participating.

Every farmer is invited and is earnestly urged to take an active interest. The Chamber of Commerce has no axe to grind—no personal favors to seek. Neither does the meeting necessitate a membership in the Chamber, and no memberships will be solicited. Since the effect, on the part of the Auburn Chamber of Commerce to bring a closer contact between the farmer and the city.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

"Jimmy" Steward returned to the shop Monday, after an absence of several weeks on account of surgery and the after effects.

It seems late, but many small brooks are still flowing. No luck for trout fishermen in the high water and surrounding snow banks.

Three and other "runt" ball games have appeared on back lots. Too much ground is holding back the snow and a foot of snow disappears from the diamond at the fair grounds.

At the office we have for sale white and colored table cloths at public sale and for decorating. Just the thing for the bureau drawers and the table cloths.

Mr. J. H. Hosmer has been appointed to judge in the Pennecook race. He is a resident of the town of Norway, Maine.

Arthur Morse says: "It does pay to advertise. I inserted an ad. in the Inquirer for the return of a lost dog. On my way home from the village I found the dog behind a fence on the road."

Reg. H. H. H. who hangs his hat in the hall, sent greetings on a card from Tijuana B. C., Mexico, where he is transacting business and spending the money.

The starting capacity of Norway High School has been definitely settled by the W. W. Lyon, who counts 265 as the number. He has drafted a plan to check up on seats for his school, "The Old Fashioned Mother," where many more can be accommodated in the building in the back of the school and is accepted.

Set for comments, heard and seen or some other column: "I have read in your paper about the small boys being so rough and sassy. They are everywhere and I feel sorry for them. I think they haven't any parents that are interested enough in them to help them by finding something for them to do besides running the streets with the cats and dogs."

"But in any town, especially the village—you take the boys from nine to sixteen and there's only now and then a few who have any respect for anyone or anything. They will snow ball the tiny kids or the ladies, an old man or a pair of horses, throw their snow balls into a public and splash everyone for rods and think they are smart. They do not have any idea what qualities it takes to make a gentleman nor have any idea what the word decency means."

"Probably the readers wonder if I have any boys and if they are angels. Yes, I have three and they are doing much better. I think the biggest trouble for the boys with their parents as they never find anything for them to do to pass away the time or take up their minds. They are just turned loose with the cats and dogs, and never made to obey. They go to school and those that are the most 'up to the minute' are always the worst. They are saucy and hateful in school and just make life miserable for the best of teachers—teachers must not strike a child here nor there and as they go from bad to worse and every year raise a little more until they are a disgrace to themselves and everyone else, just because mother has too many parties to see to use the window stick and father has to tinker the car and is don't take so long to give Jimmy a quarter to spend as it would to ply the razor strap a few times."

Fishing Season Opening

Sportsmen Soon Indulging in Favorite Sport

Tales of the record catches of other days are being told as the old timers wait impatiently for the first of April, the opening of the fishing season at the famous Bangor Pool. Tackle is coming out of storage, rods to be checked and re-wound, reels to be tested for the proper pull; lines, flies, nets, gaffs, boats, all coming in for a careful overhauling against the day when the salmon begin their annual invasion of the Penobscot and the champion Isak Walton's look to the Pool to compete for the first salmon of the season, by tradition destined for the White House table.

The rising of the Penobscot salmon to the fly signals the opening of Maine fishing and the Penobscot salmon luster that he is, offers a keen variety of sport. He shakes at a fly with a quick fast lunge and if you're quick enough to hook him, your battle has only begun. His twenty-five to thirty pounds of slim strong body on the end of a fragile line and pole present a problem to delight the heart of any fisherman.

But the pre-season arguments as to the respective fighting qualities of the landlocked and sea-run salmon are over. There are those who will make the April first pilgrimage to Sebago Lake, there to pit their skill against the unmanicured and determined and powerful fighter native to those waters.

But these arguments are merely seasonal. For in Maine it's each man to his taste, and fishing offers endless variety to satisfy the demands of the most exacting. With a definite set date of April 1, for the opening of the fishing season at Bangor Pool and Sebago, the Maine fishing laws throw open to the state the right to "when the ice is out". But the spring has started on its northward march. The keen March winds are growing gentler, and the sun warmer, as winter loosens its grip on the rivers and lakes. The ice of the Pine Tree State. The break up of the ice is a gradual process hardly noticeable to the eye of the uninitiated. Wind and sun work in harmony to loosen the fingers of winter on the frozen waters until one morning bright clear pools sparkle an invitation to begin the sport. The glad tidings that the "ice is out in Maine," brings on the annual rush of sportsmen. They begin in the southern part of the state and from Sebago follow the spring northward to Long Lake, Highland, Woods Pond, Moose Pond, Kearsarge Lake, and the Penobscot, Moosehead, all through the state until by the middle of May, they are fishing in the famed waters of Aroostook County.

Every one of Maine's sixteen counties offers sport for the fisherman. The Maine Development Commission reports that 27,000 non-resident fishing licenses were sold in the state in 1930, trout, salmon, bass, and pickerel, draw his verbal appendages melodiously as the notes of a well tuned piano respond to the touch of a thoroughbred musician's hands.

The Farm Bureau held an all day session at the Penobscot, March 17th. Mr. Bronson, the demonstrator, was very interesting, as was the talk on flower gardens. The tables were prettily decorated with flowers and the chowder was very good.

The Kearsarge grade schools are closed for a four weeks vacation. The high school will close Friday for the Easter recess.

FRYBURGH-TOLL BRIDGE
Mr. and Mrs. Roland McAllister and little Ruth of South Waterford have visited relatives in town. Mr. McAllister of Stow and Wallace McAllister of Oxford recently visited their brother, Grant McAllister. Mrs. McAllister, Mr. and Mrs. Roland McAllister and Ruth, Mrs. and Mr. Albert McAllister and Caroline, and Muriel and Walter McAllister spent a very pleasant evening, recently, at Fryburgh, with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Charles (Nellie McAllister) and family, listening to the radio. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Charles, consisting of sandwiches, cakes, and coffee. Ruth and Marion Marshall of the Central village Dorothy Holt, recently.

Harry Holt finished saving birch Saturday, the 14th. Percy Coombs and Harry Holt are in South Paris, Maine. In the past seven years, the state has expended over $150,000,000 in building and improving the enormous increase in tourist traffic now classed as one of Maine's greatest industries bringing annually $120,000,000 into the state.

THE TOURISTS ARE COMING
Almost before we know it the advance guard of the 1931 army of tourists will be passing our doors. At least far too many of them will pass unless we wake up to the fact that these tourists should be cultivated and taught to enter our doors rather than to pass them. The average tourist requires so many dollars a day for each day he is touring. He must have gas, oil, food, and sleeping accommodations. Some one somewhere, other years we have not gotten our share of this tourist trade and of this money. It would be a very conservative estimate to say that twenty tourists drive through our town each day. Twenty tourists a day for say 150 days means a total of 3,000 tourists. If our town, our store windows, our streets, our tourist homes, our hotels, and everything about us, could be made so attractive to each of these tourists would find it a pleasure to spend one dollar with us, it would mean quite a tidy little sum to our business men and women.

CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMP
Port McKinley will be the scene of another Citizen's Military Training Camp, or C. M. T. C., during the month of July this year. Situated on Great Diamond Island in Casco Bay, Portland, Port McKinley offers the young men of northern New England an opportunity seldom found at the disposal of the military authorities in any part of the country. Those who desire to apply, or parents who desire boys to attend camp, must have certificate of character to file with their applications. The allotment for Maine is 322.

KEZAR FALLS

Rev. Arthur A. Callaghan's text, Sunday morning, Mar. 22, was taken from Matthew, and he said unto him, "Pol-low Me". Miss Maudie Fox sang, "Blest Redeemer," and Mrs. Walter Carpenter and Miss Margaret Chellis, the duet, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul". Fourteen men from Kezar Falls left early, so as to attend the Thirteenth Class in Portland.

Mrs. Claire Davis, widow of Fulton Davis, passed away after a brief illness, Thursday afternoon, March 22nd. Services were held at her late home, Rev. Callaghan officiating. The rooms were filled with relatives and friends and the fragrance of lovely flowers symbolized their silent sympathy. Mrs. Davis left a son, grandchildren, two brothers and many friends to mourn their loss. The bearers were Sheridan Champion, Henry Champion, Frank Holmes and Preston Stanley. Interment in Cornish cemetery, Cornish being the home town of her parents for many years.

James E. Chapman, aged sixty-nine years, passed away Sunday, March 22, after a few days illness with capillary pneumonia. He leaves a wife and daughter to mourn their loss. The daughter and her husband, James Chapman, made a hurried trip from Wilmington, Del., on receiving word of Mr. Chapman's condition. It is a blow to the entire community. He had lived here the greater part of his life and his former home, attended the schools, the church and the Knights of Pythias Lodge, a friend to every one and a loss to all who knew him.

A corporation meeting was held in Town Hall, Saturday afternoon, March 21, and elected officers: treasurer, O. L. Stanley; assessors, Sidney B. Stanley, Karl Stacy and Elmer Merchant; fire wardens, Allen Sawyer and Arthur Smith; collector, Mrs. Jennie Chellis. Five hundred dollars was raised for sidewalks.

The Macbeth Club was entertained on the evening of March by Mabel Wiggin, who gave a very enjoyable evening. Mr. and Mrs. Giles of Hotel Malvern have been entertaining their children, their daughters, Lillian from Farmington, high, from of Springdale Institute, and son, Howard, from New Hampton, N. H.

The Kivans met at Hotel Malvern, Sunday, Mar. 22. The speaker of the evening was George C. Coe, of Lowell, his subject, "The Boulder Dam Project". He was a wonderfully good speaker and a real pleasure to hear him. He dealt with a stupendous hazard, which if accomplished, would out rank any engineering feat ever attempted. He must have spent years mastering the subject from a 2. Tunneling through mountains, in holes, bridges in space, figuring the appalling cost down to the minutest item, would wreck an ordinary brain to destruction, whereas he is so well schooled the astonishing things to an ordinary mind, he rolls off his verbal appendages melodiously as the notes of a well tuned piano respond to the touch of a thoroughbred musician's hands.

The Farm Bureau held an all day session at the Penobscot, March 17th. Mr. Bronson, the demonstrator, was very interesting, as was the talk on flower gardens. The tables were prettily decorated with flowers and the chowder was very good.

The Kearsarge grade schools are closed for a four weeks vacation. The high school will close Friday for the Easter recess.

FRYBURGH-TOLL BRIDGE
Mr. and Mrs. Roland McAllister and little Ruth of South Waterford have visited relatives in town. Mr. McAllister of Stow and Wallace McAllister of Oxford recently visited their brother, Grant McAllister. Mrs. McAllister, Mr. and Mrs. Roland McAllister and Ruth, Mrs. and Mr. Albert McAllister and Caroline, and Muriel and Walter McAllister spent a very pleasant evening, recently, at Fryburgh, with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Charles (Nellie McAllister) and family, listening to the radio. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Charles, consisting of sandwiches, cakes, and coffee. Ruth and Marion Marshall of the Central village Dorothy Holt, recently.

Harry Holt finished saving birch Saturday, the 14th. Percy Coombs and Harry Holt are in South Paris, Maine. In the past seven years, the state has expended over $150,000,000 in building and improving the enormous increase in tourist traffic now classed as one of Maine's greatest industries bringing annually $120,000,000 into the state.

THE TOURISTS ARE COMING
Almost before we know it the advance guard of the 1931 army of tourists will be passing our doors. At least far too many of them will pass unless we wake up to the fact that these tourists should be cultivated and taught to enter our doors rather than to pass them. The average tourist requires so many dollars a day for each day he is touring. He must have gas, oil, food, and sleeping accommodations. Some one somewhere, other years we have not gotten our share of this tourist trade and of this money. It would be a very conservative estimate to say that twenty tourists drive through our town each day. Twenty tourists a day for say 150 days means a total of 3,000 tourists. If our town, our store windows, our streets, our tourist homes, our hotels, and everything about us, could be made so attractive to each of these tourists would find it a pleasure to spend one dollar with us, it would mean quite a tidy little sum to our business men and women.

CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMP
Port McKinley will be the scene of another Citizen's Military Training Camp, or C. M. T. C., during the month of July this year. Situated on Great Diamond Island in Casco Bay, Portland, Port McKinley offers the young men of northern New England an opportunity seldom found at the disposal of the military authorities in any part of the country. Those who desire to apply, or parents who desire boys to attend camp, must have certificate of character to file with their applications. The allotment for Maine is 322.
